Property Overview

Big Cypress Preserve encompasses 2,157± acres of recreational and protected conservation land in the heart of Southwest Florida's Big Cypress Basin, a region known for its exceptional ecological significance. The property is safeguarded in perpetuity by a recorded conservation easement held by the South Florida Water Management District, ensuring the long-term preservation of its wetlands, wildlife habitat, and natural hydrologic systems.

Currently operated as an approved mitigation bank, the property has undergone extensive professional restoration and ongoing ecological management; sellers will retain all mitigation rights. Today, it provides high-quality habitat that supports regional conservation priorities and contributes meaningfully to the ecological health of the Big Cypress landscape. The perfect escape for hunters and wildlife enthusiasts, this property is home to multiple species, including turkeys, alligators, deer, coyotes, feral hogs, black bears, bobcats, and panthers.
